

Workshop Report on Scholastic –Short Reads

Short Reads Training Program

The session began with an engaging introduction on 21st September '2024 by Ms. Neelam Narang, highlighting the importance of Short Reads for building literacy skills in foundational & preparatory stages for grade 3 English faculty members.

The focus was on how short, well-curated texts can foster interest in reading while enhancing comprehension, vocabulary, and critical thinking among Grade-3 students

Mid Review – 19th October '2024-The session transitioned into an interactive phase where participants explored the student material. Ms. Neelam Narang facilitated a discussion to evaluate the relevance and engagement of the content. The student material consisted of 6 cards featuring diverse themes and activities of fiction & non-fiction stories.

Final Review-23rd November '2024 , The session concluded with comprehensive review of materials and strategies discussed . Participants shared insights about the effectiveness of the resources, emphasizing - * The suitability of the materials for Grade-3 learners
*These materials were found to be fun-filled and resourceful, keeping students engaged while reinforcing key learning concepts. The 3-hour session effectively combined theory and practice, offering participants tools and insights to implement short reads effectively in classrooms.

